ALLEGIS ADVISOR GROUP AND UNFCU FINANCIAL ADVISORS ANNOUNCE ALLIANCE

Combined purchasing power will provide lower cost life insurance solutions to clients

LONG ISLAND CITY, NY May 18, 2010—With life insurance costs continuing to rise, one new alliance—that of Allegis Advisor Group and UNFCU Financial Advisors (UNFCU FA), a United Nations Federal Credit Union-owned company—is using the power of the Web and a unique sales program to provide a comprehensive suite of financial solutions and services to individuals, families, and businesses across the United States.

UNFCU FA’s clients will gain several benefits from this partnership, including access to Allegis Concierge, an online, self-guided program to help clients easily and conveniently find the most cost-effective term life insurance coverage, and Allegis Partners, a program to initiate joint marketing and sales opportunities between financial services professionals and organizations and certified public accountants, property and casualty insurance agencies, and law firms.

UNFCU FA will offer a full range of life, disability, and long-term care insurance to its clients and will have access to Allegis’ experienced underwriters and advanced case design experts. Both companies hope to capitalize on their combined purchasing power to provide life insurance solutions at a lower cost.

“In the current economy, there are so many people whose life insurance, disability insurance, long-term care, and other financial needs are underserved,” said Chris Miller, president of Allegis. “Our alliance with UNFCU FA will allow its clients to gain access to a broad network of financial advisors in order to develop effective plans to fill in these gaps on a cost-effective basis.”

UNFCU FA will extend its geographic reach through Allegis’ 350 independent producers nationwide and in turn offer UNFCU FA’s innovative Income Solutions® retirement income program and Welcome Home™ real estate buy/sell relocation program, in addition to its other specialty service offerings.

Moreover, as a result of the joint venture, UNFCU FA can now inform clients about the latest financial products, trends, and legislation via Allegis' extensive curriculum of Webcasts, articles, and other educational resources.

“We are fortunate to build an alliance with an organization led by a senior leadership team with over 110 years combined of financial services, marketing, and sales experience and who believes that providing valuable insurance solutions is more important than making a profit,” said Stephen Ryerson, president of UNFCU FA. “Allegis has built a culture on transparency and trust that mirrors the values of our company, and we share a common goal—to provide clients with solutions and services to ensure their sustained financial stability and peace of mind.”

Based out of Salt Lake City, Allegis plans to leverage UNFCU FA's growing brand recognition to boost its advisor recruiting efforts in the Northeast. UNFCU FA has offices in New York and Washington D.C.
